Announcing the new ASX Online Website

ASX Online is changing. Over the next year we will be delivering to you a new website underpinned by new technology, design and an improved user experience.

Background – ASX Online re-development (www.asxonline.com)

In January this year we asked for your thoughts on ASX Online to find out what works, what doesn't and how you would like to use ASX Online. Thank you for your participation and ideas.

Features you asked for include:

1. easier access and control across your regular tasks and enquiries
2. streamlined processes for ease and efficiency
3. up-to-date news and information on what's important to you

When will ASX Online change and what's my involvement?

The "Participant" section of ASX Online will be the first section of ASX Online to be updated. This will happen towards the end of the calendar year. This will be followed closely by the "Listed Companies" section.

At this stage there is no action required from you. You can expect to receive regular project communication and engagement from us as we develop the site.

Need more information?

Continued feedback and contributions from you are welcome, as are any questions you may have about this exciting initiative. If you would like to participate in user groups or user testing starting soon, please contact us at info@asx.com.au.

"I look forward to further engagement with you on this important customer initiative"
